TEN LIVES ARE LOST IN STORM

Hurricane Sweeps Over the Gulf of Mexico.

SEA WALL SAVES GALVESTON

Lower Section of the City Inundated, But No Lives Are Lost There. Those Who Perished Were Members of a Fishing Party and Were Washed From the Rocky Promontories Into the Gulf.

Galveston, Tex., July 22.—Ten dead is the total number of lives lost so far as is known in the hurricane which swept over the Gulf of Mexico and struck Galveston. While the city of Galveston was held safe against the fury of the storm by the government's $2,000,000 sea wall, far out in the gulf on Tarpon fishing pier, seven miles from the city, where the storm whipped over the jetty into the bay, ten persons were washed from the rocky promontories into the gulf. Boats are searching the bay for the bodies, but so far have been unsuccessful. Those drowned were members of a fishing party and employees of the Tarpon pier, marooned in the jetty. Boats were sent to their assistance and it was learned that the house in which they sought refuge had been washed away.

While it is impossible to get an accurate list of the dead, the best information obtainable is as follows:

Captain Bettison and wife, Edward Lewis, C. H. Daily, circulation manager Galveston Tribune, formerly of Chicago; Ray Teatshorn of Houston, Tex., and four negroes. The others are unknown.

It is reported that there has been considerable loss of life at Palacios and Blessing, two small towns on the gulf in Matagorda county.

It is also reported that Bay City suffered greatly from the hurricane. The storm is reported as having reached Austin, 350 miles in the interior, but that city is said to have suffered practically no damage.

Galveston passed safely through the hurricane, which resembled somewhat in intensity the disastrous storm of 1900. Part of the island upon which the city is situated was again inundated, the overflowing sea water reaching a height of seven or more feet. That portion of the island which has been protected suffered comparatively little harm. No lives were lost and the property damage will not be very large.

Sweeping westward, the tropical storm struck Galveston. The wind attained a velocity of sixty-eight miles an hour and shifted to the northeast, heaving the waters of Galveston bay up against the island and flooding that section which had not yet been raised. The water backed up into the main streets of the city; but the principal damage was confined to the beach front, where bath houses and pleasure piers were swept away.

A hurricane had been forecasted and the inhabitants of the few scattered houses in the low section of the island had already sought safety, while the vessels were riding at anchor in the bay.

A dredge had been blown against the single bridge, which connects Galveston island with the mainland, however, and the telegraph cables had been parted. A crew was put to work repairing the bridge and laying new cables.

Campers Reported Safe.

Beaumont, Tex., July 22.—Between 200 and 500 people who have been living in hotels, cottages and tents along the gulf shore between High Island and Bolivar, on the Gulf and on the State railroad, are now reported safe at High Island.

Vote to Remain Idle.

Butler, Pa., July 22.—Despite the assurances of the officials of the Standard Steel Car company through Father Baczewski that as soon as conditions warranted an increase in wages, it would be granted its employees, the striking workmen at the plants of the car company voted to remain idle until their employers signed a written agreement granting them immediate increases in wages and refunds on back rentals of company houses.

To Suppress Liquor Traffic.

London, July 22.—Delegates from thirty countries formed the "World's Prohibition Confederation" at the London Imperial Institute. The object of the confederation is to unite for mutual help the organizations of the world which are working for the suppression of the liquor traffic.

NOT KILLED BY BEING BEATEN

Witness Says Blows Did Not Cause Sutton's Death.

ENDED LIFE WITH REVOLVER

Oregon Officer Said to Have Pulled the Trigger of the Weapon That Killed Him—Lieutenant Bevan Testifies That Prior to the Tragedy Sutton Had Threatened to Shoot Himself.

Annapolis, Md., July 22.—When the naval board of inquiry which is investigating the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton of Portland, Ore., finished its third day's session only four witnesses out of the fifteen subpoenaed by the government had been examined. During the session the judge advocate requested counsel for the interested parties to submit a list of any other witnesses they might want to summon. Counsel for Sutton's mother said after court that outside of Mrs. Rose Sutton Parker, sister of Lieutenant Sutton, there would be no witnesses beyond those on the government list. Both the direct and cross-examination of the four young officers of the marine corps who were present at the fight when, as they have all testified, Sutton shot himself, has been lengthy. Counsel for the Suttons had not much more than started his cross-examination of Lieutenant Edward S. Willing, now attached to the marine barracks at the navyyard in Philadelphia, when the hearing was adjourned for the day. In essential particulars Lieutenant Willing's story differed little from that of his brother officers.

As Lieutenant Willing on cross-examination described Sutton, either standing or on his knees, with Adams holding him by the back of the neck with one hand and punching him with the other, it was too much for Mrs. Parker, who sat directly opposite the witness. She smiled incredulously at Willing and, turning to Mr. Van Dyke, one of her counsel, said indignantly: "Imagine a wild man, as they describe my brother to have been, standing up with a revolver in each hand and taking a punching like that. It is wholly incredible."

If subdued sneers and incredulous smiles would have disconcerted the witnesses, they would have been hopelessly squelched by those frequently directed at them by Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Sutton. A long discussion of the case between Major Leonard and Mrs. Sutton and her daughter at Carvel hall bore fruit during Lieutenant Willing's testimony, when the judge advocate asked the witness if he thought the punching Sutton got would have killed him, or if the witness had any way of knowing whether Sutton was dead before the last shot was fired. It was known that Mrs. Sutton impressed upon Major Leonard her belief that her son was beaten to death and shot afterward. The witness answered these questions in the negative and said there was no doubt in his mind that Sutton pulled the trigger of the revolver when he was shot.

Lieutenant Bevan created a stir when he testified that six weeks prior to the shooting Sutton had told him that life in the marine corps had no attraction for him and that some day he would shoot himself.

PREMIERSHIP OF FRANCE

President Fallieres Will Offer It to Leon Bourgeois.

Paris, July 22.—President Fallieres will offer the premiership to Leon Bourgeois, former minister of foreign affairs. Parliamentary circles foresee that he will decline the honor, as his health is far from robust. Nevertheless, the cabinet crisis promises to be of short duration.

M. Clemenceau, the late premier, and the presidents of the senate and the chamber of deputies have all counselled President Fallieres that M. Briand, minister of justice and worship, is the most available man after M. Bourgeois.

Although the temper of the senate is described as rather cold to the elevation of M. Briand, the attitude of the chamber is said to be sympathetic. If he is named as premier, it is expected that he will immediately reconstitute the Clemenceau ministry, with Clemenceau omitted, and commit himself to following up the programme of reform laid down by the Clemenceau cabinet.

CONFEREES MAKE PROGRESS

Tariff Schedules Taken Up and Many Paragraphs Settled.

Washington, July 22.—Better progress was made during the day by the tariff conferees than on any day since the really troublesome disputes were reached. No trace of the ill-feeling which was manifested on Monday was apparent in the proceedings.

When the conferees adjourned before noon Tuesday it was feared that efforts to adjust the differences would be unavailing until after the White House dinner. This impression was gained because of the attitude of Mr. Payne, who continued his objections to the apparent willingness of some of his associates to yield to the senate conferees without any great show of fight. After a discussion of raw materials schedules were taken up, however, and many paragraphs were settled without any renewal of hostilities.

President Taft is given the credit for the "dove of peace" which hovered over the conference. It developed that after Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon poured their troubles into the ears of the executive Tuesday he undertook to bring the warring factions together. Consequently the president took Mr. Payne out for a ride in his big touring car.

The president and Mr. Payne talked over the situation and Mr. Payne made no objections to the taking up of subjects not involved in the White House programme concerning raw materials.

The conferees adjusted the entire zinc schedule, disposed of the lead schedule and the window glass schedule and agreed upon the duty on lemons.

APPROACHES THE WORLD'S RECORD

Orville Wright's Aeroplane Attains High Speed.

Washington, July 22.—In two short flights in the Wright aeroplane at Fort Myer, Orville Wright closely approached the world's aeroplane speed record, attaining an average velocity of fifty-four and one-half miles an hour as computed by Wilbur Wright, who held the stop watch on the machine for half a dozen rounds of the course.

On the first flight the air craft remained aloft only one minute and thirty-nine seconds, the aviator being forced to descend by losing a cogwheel on the magneto after making his second round of the course. On his second flight, after the cogwheel had been replaced, the aeroplane swiftly circled a dozen times around the course, which is five-sixths of a mile in circumference. Certain changes in the gearing of the motor and propellers which were intended to give the machine a higher speed, had been effected earlier in the day.

The Wright brothers had decided to give this speed change only a tentative trial and the aviator brought the aeroplane to the earth after ten minutes and fifty-six seconds in the air. Secretary of War Dickinson, Secretary of State Knox, Major General Young, Senators Newlands, Dol-iver and Elkins, Brigadier General Witherspoon, acting chief of staff of the army, and other notable persons witnessed the flights.

AGAINST PROTECTED VICE

State's Attorney Wayman of Chicago Making a Crusade.

Chicago, July 22.—State's Attorney Wayman's spectacular crusade against "protected vice" in this city resulted in 105 indictments against resort keepers and gamblers being returned by the grand jury. The men hit were proprietors of Chinese gambling houses, resort keepers in the West Side levee district and "blind pig" men from the suburbs. According to Mr. Wayman the crusade has only begun. A determined effort is being made to get at the bottom of the protection system that is said to exist.

FOUR MEN SERIOUSLY HURT

Three of Them May Die of Their Injuries.

Duluth, July 22.—By the collapse of a derrick used on the construction of the new village hall at Chisholm, four men were seriously injured, three, it is feared, fatally. The men were rushed to a city hospital. Those seriously hurt and who may die are:

John Hamlin, Gust Haggert and August Olson.

Frank Bellen had one of his ankles crushed, while Arthur Dillman was slightly injured.

The men were raising two immense cornices weighing about 500 pounds each, when the derrick broke, precipitating them and the load about fifteen feet.

SCHOOL FOR INDUSTRY

Freeport, Ill., Trying a Trade Between Factory and Lessons.

PUPILS PAID FOR THEIR WORK

One Week Boys Labor Over the Machines and the Next Over Their Desks, Getting a Training to Fit Them For the Commercial World. Radical Educational Change.

The Citizens' Commercial association of Freeport, Ill., has, in connection with the school board, brought about an innovation in industrial education. The plan adopted is to permit students in the high school to work
one-half of the time in factories.

The boys work in pairs, one boy in the factory one week and in high school the next week, the other boy of the pair alternating—that is, the boy in school this week goes to the factory on Saturday afternoon and takes the work in hand that the other boy has been doing all the week so that he can take it up quickly Monday morning without encroaching too much upon the time of the foreman. The boys are paid 10 cents an hour the first year, 11 cents the second year and 12½ cents the third year, and they are given full credit for their work in high school.

Good Progress Made in School.

It is said that boys working in this way pass their examinations as creditably as those spending their full time in school. The reasons given are that because of their factory experience their minds are more receptive and they comprehend the school work quickly. Then they have their evenings to prepare recitations, and as only the more ambitious boys elect such a course they make good progress.

The plan pleases the boys because it gives them a chance to work with tools and to earn something. Most boys when they arrive at the age of fourteen years wish to earn their own money. This gives them an opportunity to do so and to remain in school at the same time. It pleases the mothers because, while they appreciate the necessity of the boys going to work, they feel that it is a rather tender age to tie them down to hard work every day.

It pleases the fathers because they feel that the boys ought to be engaged in some productive employment, while still they desire them better prepared intellectually. It pleases the manufacturers because it provides boys who have brains and ambition beyond the average, for only the more energetic boys will choose a course of this kind.

It pleases the school board because it keeps boys in school for the four year period, something that is very difficult to do. It pleases the labor organizations by helping the boys who need help most.

It is beneficial to the boys in another way.
If a boy don't go to work when he is about fourteen years old he becomes too proud or too lazy to work. It is a well known fact that the most important business men were brought up to work when they were young; that a large proportion of tramps and irresponsibles are recruited from villages where boys have no chores to attend to before school and nothing to do after school.

Interest in the Home Hearth.

Still another object is to bring a closer relation between the high school and the manufacturing interests of Freeport for the purpose of interesting the boys in their home city instead of pointing them away to some other city as soon as they leave school. The plan will help to solve the apprentice difficulties, while directing the minds of the brightest boys along mechanical lines, something after the plan of

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "In Helonias we have a medication which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says:
"The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhoea; atonic (weak) condition of the reproductive organs of women; constant menstruation; associated with chronic diseases of
the reproductive organs of women; constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys;
menorrhagia (flooding), due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea (suppression) or absent monthly periods, arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and aemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medicinal properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions and general enfeeblement, it is useful." Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root: "In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal: "Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive menstruation (painful menstruation)." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

the German educational system.

The general plan is for the boys to start work in the factory in vacation. They choose the factory that suits them best, and the employers try them out. The boys try the work to learn whether they like it or not.

Mr. Shearer of the Citizens' Commercial association, who was principally instrumental in introducing the plan, says:

"The Freeport plan means a radical change in educational matters, one that is about as far away from the old time classical system as it is possible to get."

Specializing in high school to such an extent is an innovation which points to radical changes in our educational methods, leaning well over toward the manufacturing interests of the United States.

"No radical change in the curriculum of the Freeport high school is contemplated at present, but in all probability the system will be extended along special lines looking to the education of young men and young women to fit them for the special lines of work chosen by them."

"Technical studies will be used as mind trainers just as effectively as the Greek and Latin of our old time pedagogues, and the boys will imble something of practical value while they are still young."—Kansas City Star.

the ancient custom of eating it at feasts for the

Could Not Get Insured

Until kidney disease was cured by DR.
A. W. CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS

Most railroad men swear by Dr. A. W.
Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills as the most satisfactory treatment for their special ailments—kidney disease and constipation.

This railroad man could not get life insurance until cured of kidney disease
by Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. Here is his letter:

Mr. W. M. Bago, Driftwood, Pa., writes:
"I am railroaded between Driftwood and Dubois and have been greatly troubled with my kidneys, so that I could not rest or sleep nights. Hearing about Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills I began using them, and can now report that I am entirely cured and in the best health and spirits that I ever enjoyed. By use of this treatment I have gained weight, my flesh is hard and firm and I have successfully passed an insurance examination, which I could never have done had the kidneys not been thoroughly sound and well."

DISPATCH ADDS LINOTYPE

One of Most Wonderful inventions of Recent Years Added to Equip-ment of Office

THE DISPATCH is installing a Mer-genthaler Linotype to its already fine equipment and when the machine is in place and in working order the office will be one of the best equipped of any in northern Minnesota. The linotype is not a type-setting machine in the ordinary sense of the word—on the contrary it is a machine which, being operated by finger keys like a typewriter, creates or produces type matter ready for use on the press or stereotyping table. It produces and assembles side by side metal bars or slugs each the length and width of a line of type and having on the upper edge the type characters to print an entire line. An extended description of the wonderful machine and its possibilities will be given in a later issue.

The rapidly growing business of THE DISPATCH and the demands upon it for the handling of the news has made this addition to the plant a necessity, new features will be added and we expect to make the best and widest circulated paper in Crow Wing county a household necessity in future.

ROAD TO BE BUILT INTO BRAINERD

Cuyler Adams States That Cuy-una Range Railroad will Ulti-mately Come Here

PRESENT LINE IS LOCATED

Road Definitely Located to Rab-bit Lake and to Section Thirty

The engineers of the Cuyuna Range railroad moved into Deerwood Tuesday and took possession of the new building erected for their use at that place. The line is now all located, the final corrections and tying up being practically completed. The line will re-cross the Northern Pacific railway by an over-head crossing about two miles east of Deerwood and run nearly parallel with the latter road to the Chescuitawney mine in section 16, town of Deerwood. The depot for the village of Deerwood has not been definitely located, but will be located within half a mile or three quarters of a mile of the Northern Pacific depot and will be east of the new addition to the town planned by the Cuyuna Range Townsite Co.

Cuyler Adams, the president and general manager of the road, was seen regarding the company's intentions and stated that the steel would be laid to the Rabbit lake mine and to the Chescuitawney mine this fall. The road, he stated would doubtless eventually be extended to Brainerd, but added that Brainerd seemed luke warm on the proposition and had not extended the road the glad hand as had Aitkin. How soon the road would be built to Brainerd would depend entirely upon the development of the mines around Brainerd and the amount of ore and other business the road could be assured of.

Mr. Adams stated that the Cuyuna Range road would have the lightest grades and slightest curves of any ore carrying road in the state. The heaviest grade will be .3 of one per cent and the heaviest curve will be three degrees. These conditions he says are the basis of the ability of the road to contract to haul ore for not to exceed 60 cents per ton.

Mr. Adams stated that work on the cement shaft of the Chescuitawney mine would be commenced in a very short time. This shaft is not, as generally supposed, to take the place of the one started on the same section by the Rogers-Brown Ore Co., last year and on which work was suspended nearly a year ago, but is on an entirely distinct property. The Rogers-Brown people are waiting for the Chescuitawney shaft to be put down first so that it will help drain their location. They are heavily interested in both and the Chescuitawney mine seemed in the better location for the first shaft. It is not thought the other shaft will have to be of cement.

CONFERENCE AT WHITE HOUSE

Falls to Settle Disputes Over the Tariff Bill.

ONE QUESTION DETERMINED

And That Was That the Conferees Will Have to Settle Their Own Differences—Representatives of the House and Senate Practically Admit That They Are Unable to Forecast the Outcome.

Washington, July 22.—The White House dinner and conference, at which tariff conferees and the president's closest advisers were brought together in the effort to settle differences regarding the tariff bill, ended with the disputes over raw materials no nearer adjustment than they were before the dinner invitations were issued.

Only one question was determined beyond appeal and that was that the conferees will have to settle their own differences. Pains were taken, however, to convey the impression that this decision is not indicative of any absence of appreciation of the president's efforts. It merely confirms what the "Elder Statesmen" had asserted from the first—that tariff making is trading, and the shrewdest dealer and the strongest section is bound to get the best of the argument. That this truism is responsible for the insurgent movements in the house and senate and party revolts in Middle Western states does not alter the situation.

Briefly stated, the representatives of the house and senate practically admitted that they were unable to forecast the outcome. Senator Aldrich spoke for the senate and Speaker Cannon and Representative Dwight, the Republican whip, for the house.

Not Ready to Estimate Its Strength.

Mr. Dwight spoke of the insurgent movement organized by the "anti-free-raw-material" faction in the house, but he was not ready to estimate the strength of this element. Representative Payne expressed the opinion that a conference report carrying free iron ore, coal, hides and oil could be adopted in the house, but he said that he had not canvassed the situation. Senator Aldrich was very positive in the opinion that such a report would fail in the senate, but he thought there could be reductions made in the senate rates, with perhaps iron ore and oil transferred to the free list, without endangering its adoption.

Apparently the president realized that the time had not yet arrived to call for a decision on the subject of raw materials. It is said that he did not press the representatives of either the house or the senate for more definite statements of the situation in the respective branches of congress.

The customs courts and the corporation tax amendments were discussed at length. Most of those present agreed with President Taft that the customs court should be situated in Washington, since it is to be a court of appeals whose decisions will be final.

The discussion of the corporation tax deal with the revenue it will produce and the general effect of the tax from a political point of view.

Some of the conferees said after the dinner that no conference report would be signed until both houses had been canvassed as to the probability of its being adopted. No one can say how much this will delay adjournment of the tariff session.

President Taft served notice on the congressional leaders of the Republican party at the White House dinner that the country is looking to them to keep the pledges made last fall for a downward revision of the tariff. So far as he is able, the president informed his guests, he intends to see that these pledges are kept.

Immigration on the Wane.

Washington, July 22.—The tide of immigration into the United States is on the wane. A falling off of 23, 639, or approximately 20 per cent in the number of immigrants admitted into all ports for the month of June, compared with May last, is shown by statistics made public by the bureau of immigration.

The latter gentleman was negotiating for a couple of lots west of O. C. Coffin's store with a view to erecting a 40-room hotel.

The storms Monday night and Tuesday night were very heavy and the ground received a severe soaking. There was much heavy thunder and sharp lightning, but no damage is reported from this immediate section, though the barn of I. Bjornass, of Klondike, was destroyed. Several trees were also struck.

T. F. Cole had an aggravating mishap with his motor carriage Tuesday. He made a very successful trip to Brainerd, detouring to visit several of his drills. While on his way home a bolt lost out of his steering gear, Nokay lake, and he was compelled to leave his machine and hire a team to bring him in. He went out Wednesday to bring in the machine.

General Manager Chester Tripp, of the Rogers-Brown Ore Company, was here from Chicago for a couple of days this week looking over the company's work in this section. His visit is said to have been in connection with the location of the concrete shaft to be put down for the Chescuitawney mine in section 30, town of Deerwood. According to all reports the work on this shaft will commence in the near future.

M. B. Nichols and family and Walter Nichols and family had a narrow escape during the storm last Tuesday night. They are camping on Minister's point, the gentlemen being conductors on the Northern Pacific railway and employed on the gravel trains. During the storm a bolt of lightning struck a tree to which their tent ropes were tied. The bolt broke a big limb off the tree and it just missed the tent. A steel fishing rod which was leaning against the tree was melted down.

ARRIVE AT COUNCIL BLUFFS

Glidden Tourists Make Fast Time in Iowa.

Council Bluffs, Ia., July 22.—The cars in the Glidden tour automobile contest completed their run from Fort Dodge to Council Bluffs, Ia., after the fastest run to date. Several of the cars hit a rate of seventy miles an hour over the good roads, which in many places had been worked over by the Iowa farmers for the convenience of the tourists. There was only one bad stretch of road and the tourists detoured twenty miles to avoid this, part of the originally planned route.

The running time for the day was 9 hours and 48 minutes, but every car except one—Jewell No. 10—arrived ahead of time. There were more penalties attached to the various cars than on any previous day of the tour, the reason for which, it was explained, was the extra fast running by many.

INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Dr. Miller, Mrs. Saylor and John Grunden Charged With Murder.
Watseka, Ill., July 22.—The special grand jury called to investigate the murder of John B. Saylor at Crescent City, indicted Dr. William Miller, Mrs. J. B. Saylor and John Grunden on a charge of murder. Ira Grunden was indicted as an accessory after the fact.

It is thought a special term of court will be called to try the cases. The few persons in the courtroom when the grand jury reported gave a murmur of approval. The indictment contains fourteen counts, but with the exception of the one accusing the defendants of the actual crime, they are merely secondary.

Dr. Miller, Mrs. Saylor and the two Grundens will be arraigned today. It is stated that each of the defendants will plead not guilty.

It is regarded as certain that the defense will move for a change of venue to some other county.

Tong Feuds of the Chinese In America

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THE ordinary American considers the typical Chinaman as a peaceful, inoffensive laundryman, whose motto of life is, "No checkee, no washee." In this the ordinary American is as far afield as Bret Harte and Bill Nye were concerning the "heathen Chinese" of the bland and childlike smile whom they inveigled into a little game. The Chinaman is a born gambler and a born feudist or, if not born that way, learns these two accomplishments at such an early age that it amounts to the same thing. He can show the average white card sharp more tricks with the pasteboards, to say nothing of fantan and other native Chink games of chance, than the paleface crook ever dreamed were in existence. And, as for feuds, the tong wars furnish a case in point. Only the other day five slant eyed citizens of Boston were sentenced to die in the electric chair for shooting four members of a rival tong back in 1907. In Philadelphia only a few years ago the Rev. Frederick Poole was wounded and one Chinaman killed in a tong battle which was but a renewal of other battles previously fought. And New York is all torn up at this moment over the supposed murder of Elsie Sigel, a Chinese missionary, whose body was found in a trunk that had been shipped back and forth over two or three states and whose death, it was brought out, occurred in the room of Leon Ling, a denizen of Chinatown, for whose apprehension two hemispheres are now being scoured, and the only reason that the scouring process has not gone farther is that there are no more hemispheres.

Promiscuous Shooters.

Now, as a fancy artist with a wash-tub a Chinaman may be a peaceful enough citizen, but mention to him the name of a rival tong and he bristles with artillery like an armory. He is a promiscuous shooter and will turn loose in a crowded theater, an open street or almost anywhere that he gets sight of his hated enemies. The usual preliminary of a Celestial shoot fest is the setting off of a bunch of firecrackers, the report of the guns being not so noticeable amid the popping of the fireworks. In one New York war the members of the rival tongs bowed their legs, squatted as low as possible and hopped about like toads, all the time emitting bullets like a sputtering, asthmatic Gatling gun. They are not remarkably accurate marksmen, as in this particular fusillade, in which something like 100 shots were fired, only two brown men bit the dust. The only reason that more execution was not done by stray bullets was that Pell and Mott streets were as empty as the tomb, the first reports starting an array of streaming pigtail from brown men, who fled in a mad stampede.

The tong members are also quite handy with knives, and during these hostilities many yellow faces with fixed eyes have been discovered by the police in back alleys or hallways, the owners of the faces having long and deep slits in their backs. To make the shadow still darker over the reputation for peace of our friends of the cue and the fatiron the most prolific source of trouble between their tongs is plain graft. It is the case of the "man higher up." Gambling is an offense against the laws, and in order that it may be carried on somebody has to be paid for immunity.

In New York it is generally believed and stated in print and otherwise that the police and Tammany are regularly "sweetened" by the keepers of gambling joints in Chinatown just as they are, according to the wisecracks, in the Tenderloin. But it is not this that creates the feuds. The head men of one of the tongs likewise get a rakeoff. The head men of the other tong object to this shameful iniquity unless they can share equally in the fruits thereof; hence the shootings, informings and trouble generally.

Noted Celestial Chieftains.

The two tongs in New York, also in Boston and most cities of the United States, are known as the Ong Leong and the Hip Sing. In Gotham the head of the Ong Leong is Tom Lee, mayor of Chinatown, a man who has entertained Li Hung Chang, not unlike whom he looks, and is counted a personage of parts. The most active man in the Hip Sings is the redoubtable Mock Duck, who has been on trial for murder once or twice in New York and at whose dread name a section of Chinatown turns a shade more yellow. These two Celestial chieftains are as different in appearance as two Chinks can well be. Both are mild looking, of course, and both are possessed of slant eyes and other regulation oriental features. But with these marks resemblance, also friendship, ceases. Tom Lee is old, with a sparse white beard, white tie and a patriarchal demeanor, which he can well afford since he is the husband of a German wife and has two strapping sons. Mock Duck is smooth of face and looks like a boy. Yet they whisper—they scarcely talk these things out loud in Chinatown—that a mere nod from this boyish head is enough to set a highlander to slit some one's throat or to start a tong war that may result in shooting up all of Pell and Mott streets and even a section of the Bowery.

The Chinese minister at Washington and consul general at New York were greatly exercised in the fear that the Sigel murder would cause a tong war, and they publicly warned the state department, the police and Chinatown itself in consequence. As a result, a large detachment of bluecoats and plain clothes men invaded the old battleground and the threatened hostilities did not materialize. With all these precautions, however, two men who were thought to be important witnesses were found murdered.

The population of Chinatown proper in New York is about 12,000 to 15,000, while there are twice as many Chinamen in the greater city and its environs. The killings have been going on for ten years at least, there having been perhaps a dozen open riots, one of them occurring in a theater and another near an "L" station in the Bowery.

Hot Fight In Boston.

The Boston fight was even more sensational and fatal than any single New York battle. One day in a narrow street somebody started a bunch of firecrackers, and during the confusion a number of Hip Sings drew their revolvers and began firing. At the end of the fusillade four of the Ong Leongs were dead or mortally wounded and several others severely hurt. Nine of the assailants were captured, and five of them have just been sentenced to the electric chair. Of these the most prominent is Warry Charles, the leader of the Hip Sing tong, who maintains his innocence. Charles is the most prominent Hip Sing leader in the east. Like Tom Lee, New York head of the rival Ong Leong tong, Warry Charles married a white woman, who is now fighting for his liberty. It was in Nebraska that Charles married his American wife, and there his two sons were born. Both of these now live in New York, one a jeweler and the other a policeman. What a strange conglomerate is this our American life!

Most of the Chinese in America come from the Canton district and, like the Italians with their Mafia, Camorra and Black Hand, bring their feuds with them. In San Francisco's ante-earthquake days the graft system and other matters relating to these people on the Pacific coast were in the hands of the famous "Six Companies." The tongs are not directly a part of the Six Companies, having been started more in the nature of social organizations, but in many other cities their province is much the same as that of this notorious tribunal that ruled the Chinese of San Francisco with an iron hand. The highbinders are not immediately connected with any of these. They are outlaws and assassins for a price. Yet there is little doubt that the highbinders are frequently called in to assist in fighting the wars of the tongs.

Resort to Daggers and Pistols.

It is hardly probable that the American people realize what all this means. Here is a section of our population living in effect under their own laws or, rather, under the rule of secret organizations that are a law unto themselves. Constructively, at least, they are answerable to American authority and in the salutary case of Boston and a few others are actually so. But for the most part they evade the American courts and settle their differences, and especially the differences of their organization, with the dagger and the pistol, all of which most completely shatters the Celestial reputation for peace and docility and recalls Bret Harte:

Which I rise to remark—
And my language is plain—
That for ways that are dark
And for tricks that are vain.
The heathen Chinese is peculiar,
Which the same I would rise to explain.

The illustrious Chuck Connors bears out this view. Chuck himself is a sort of mayor of New York's Chinatown, although a white man, or, rather, Tom Lee is the real mayor and Chuck is mayor for purposes of melodrama. He says:

Some people think Bret Harte's euche character, was imaginary. It's all right. On the level, I know that we had such a case in Chinatown a few years ago. The boys got up a poker game, with a cop as one of the players. After they had everything arranged they tried to rope a Chinaman into the game, but he was very slow and seemed to take no interest. The game stood about this way when things opened up interesting. One man had three kings to a full house, the second man a diamond flush, the third man had four tens and the cop a straight. After they got the Chink into the game they flimflammed him, and each man did his little graft at dealing and along at first gave the Chinaman a pretty good hands to coax him into the game to his limit and then do him up.

The Chink never said a word, but kept his little monkey eyes running around his head like marbles in a bowl. The boys thought he wasn't on to 'em. That was just his game to appeal. Every time he lost he smiled foolishly, but that was more of his own private flimflamming. Finally they got a big jackpot, and it was the Chinaman's turn to deal. He had all of his little tricks in his monkey head ready for business.

The pot was opened for a dollar and went to three. One of the boys raised it a dollar, the Chinaman raised it two, and so it went on till it came to a raise of $10. And then the boys began to get wet in the face. They looked queerly at one another and then about the room and then at the Chinaman, who looked at nobody and never said a word. Finally it came to a showdown between the Chinaman, the cop and the pot. The policeman had four tens, and then they called for the Chinaman to put up the money. He said: "I don't want to play any more. You get me, I win." But they forced him to it, and he put up his money and won $150 on four aces.

You never saw men so astonished. Say, on the level, they searched him all over, but couldn't find a card anywhere about his clothes, though they thought he had backs of them. They never knew where he got his four aces from. He had been watching their tricks for a couple of hours, and they thought him green and innocent. He had forgotten more tricks than they ever knew. To oblige the boys he showed some of his tricks for half an hour, things they never dreamed of.

Mock Duck's Big Cleanup.

In this connection there is a story now going the rounds of Chinatown that Mock Duck has been away on a little trip through the west—Chicago, Omaha and elsewhere—and that he cleaned up—oh, I do not know how many thousands of dollars, but something big—"In a game he did not understand."

As already mentioned, it is this gambling proclivity of our Celestial friends that causes the tong feuds, because both want the graft, all of which bears out somebody's statement that all forms of trouble have an economic cause. Paul said it first, however, when he announced that "money is the root of all evil." It certainly is the root of the tong wars.

View of Tongs by an Authority.

Returning to Chuck Connors, who ought to be an authority, he does not support the popular view of the tongs. In his opinion they are mild and benevolent institutions. Hear him:

"You hear a lot about the tongs. They ain't nothing but clubs or societies of good fellowship. When a Chink gets into trouble his tong is expected to stay with him to the limit.

"Highbinders are the toughs of every bunch of Chinamen, like our Cherry Hill bunch, the Jackson bunch and the Monk Easton bunch. The Lee bunch has always worked with Tammany, and that's where they get their pull and can run their blackmail and gambling games to the limit so long as they pay up and keep it quiet and don't let their doings get to the public enough to force the police to interfere.

"In business a Chinaman is as square as a dollar, always dealing honestly with his customers. But when it comes to gambling and crooked deeds, hiding crime and breaking the law nobody can touch him."

Device to Kill Weeds.

A patent has been granted on a syringe-like machine for injecting poisons around the roots of weeds without injuring surrounding vegetation.
